

Once upon a time...

Hannah took her banana to bed,
Pulled the covers over her head,
Oh, so yummy, she said
Munching while she read
Her new storybook in bed.

Oops, I forgot, she said,
To turn off the light
Before jumping in bed,
Grab my blanket of red
And take it off Heloise's head.

"What are you doing,
Hannah banana?
I'm trying to sleep;
You left the light on
So don't make a peep.
Quit munching on that
It's making you fat!"

Just then Hector, big brother,
Opened the door with mother:
"You two quiet down
and get some sleep;
I don't want to hear a peep."

But Mama, I have a new book,
Do you want to come and take a look?
Heloise and Hector would like it too--
They're in the book that has a big clue.

They went to Paris to sneak into the Louvre,
They had to hide and be on the move
Until they ran and then got caught--
I have to finish the book you bought.

Hector and Heloise begin to laugh,
Mother smiles and enters the path
To Hannah's bed, then slips and falls!
I didn't do it, Mama, it was my dolls
who ate the banana while I was asleep,
I'm sorry because I didn't make a peep.

Mother starts laughing while Hannah
Smiles. I have for you another banana,
Can everyone sit on my bed while you read?
I promise I'll do a very good deed
And let everyone enjoy this story
Of Hector and Heloise in all their glory.

